Groundhog Day

February 2nd

Groundhog Day is celebrated in both the United States and its neighbor to the north, Canada. The origins of this holiday date back all the way back to 1886. In all actuality, Groundhog day started as a German tradition known as candlemas which involved a hedgehog. However, when settlers from Germany relocated to Pennsylvania, the tradition was maintained with the exception that hedgehogs were replaced with groundhogs.

Every February 2nd, in Punxsutawney PA, a beloved ceremony is held at Gobbler's Knob, the proclaimed "weather capital of the world". In keeping with tradition, the woodchuck- Punxsutawney Phil, is temporarily housed in Gobbler's Knob, and then ceremoniously peeks his head out.

As legend has it, if Phil sees his own shadow, 6 more weeks of winter will occur. If Phil does not, then spring will arrive early.

The Groundhog Day celebration, which starts before the sun even rises on that day, brings some tens of thousands of people to the rural area in Pennsylvania, but if you can not make the trip, have no fear, the festivities are broadcasted on many major television channels.
